A motorcycle:

Is not just a two-wheeled car; the difference between driving a car and climbing onto a motorcycle is the difference between watching TV and actually living your life.

We spend all our time sealed in boxes, and cars are just the rolling boxes that shuffle us from home-box to work-box to store-box and back...

the whole time, entombed in stale air, temperature regulated, sound insulated, and smelling of carpets. On a motorcycle I know I'm alive.

When I ride, even the familiar seems strange and glorious.

The air has weight and substance as I push through it and its touch is as intimate as water to a swimmer.

I can see everything in a sweeping 360 degrees, up, down and around, wider than Pana-vision and IMAX and unrestricted by ceiling or dashboard.

Sometimes I even hear music. It's like hearing phantom telephones in the shower, or false doorbells when vacuuming; the pattern-loving brain, seeking signals in the noise, raises acoustic ghosts out of the wind's roar.

But on a motorcycle I hear whole songs: rock 'n roll, dark orchestras, women's voices, all hidden in the air and released by speed. ... Dave Karlotski

On Shoulder Checking Twice

Who would own a vehicle that falls over when you stop? - anonymous

I was riding at highway speed in the center lane, about to move over into the curb lane because a Corvette was behind me and following too closely, crowding me. I started my right signal light and checked over my right shoulder to confirm the lane was clear. It was. I looked ahead to ensure everything was still okay and then started to move over. At the same time I shoulder checked a second time just to make sure. Imagine my surprise to find the Corvette was coming up beside me, on my right, despite my operating turn signal and my obvious intention to change lanes demonstrated by my shoulder checking. Checking twice saved my life.

A second time was just as bad. I was travelling north on Dunbar in the west side of Vancouver. I turned right to head east on King Edward Avenue which went steeply downhill for two blocks, leveling out at the intersection. The Avenue is divided by a boulevard and each side is approximately 2-1/2 lanes wide, with parking at the curb, leaving 1-1/2 lane width for driving. As I approached the end of the two blocks, I intended to turn right and wanted to move over into the right or curb side of the lane as there were no cars parked there. A Volkswagen Beetle, this time, was crowding me from behind and I wanted to get out of his way as quickly as possible. I engaged the right signal light well before the intersection. I shoulder checked on the right and it was clear. I looked ahead to ensure everything was still okay with no pedestrians or other cars about to enter the intersection, and then started to move over to the right. But before I did that I again shoulder checked to the right. There, coming up on my right side ~ passing me on the right in an intersection ~ was the Beetle. Again, despite my signal light and obviously demonstrated intention to turn right, an idiot was attempting to pass me on the right, and this time in an intersection. Checking twice saved my life again.

In the words of Sergeant Esterhaus of Hill Street Blues fame: Hey, let's be careful out there.

You already know many non-riders think motorcycles are dangerous and you shouldn't even ride one. What you may not have thought about is that most lawyers are non-riders, and may share this prejudice. Do you want that kind of lawyer? It is in the best interest of the insurance company to settle as quickly as possible! They are representing the insurance company (NOT YOU!) You need someone with experience when dealing with corporate insurance companies like ICBC. E. James McNeney has been protecting the rights of auto accident victims since 1977.

Support Group

The tendency over the last few decades has been for people with a common problem to band together and share their experiences and in the process help each other out. This is especially true for people with medical problems and was highlighted years ago by the formation of one such group, Alcoholics Anonymous. Who better to understand another's condition than one who has it themselves? These groups are very helpful to the participants and can be a major factor in recovery.

The Association for Injured Motorcyclists (A.I.M.) is such a group, created by downed riders who saw a need for assistance to other downed riders. Ed Bell, one of the Founding Fathers, talks about how A.I.M. was started.

“The idea of an association to help injured motorcyclists started around Al Walker’s kitchen table one night in 1983. Al, Ray Leadbeater, Skip Stuart and myself discussed some of the pitfalls we had experienced in the recovery process after our accidents. None of us had known how to find a good lawyer experienced in handling motorcycle claims, and our support came from friends and family, for those who had family here.

We formed a volunteer society under the British Columbia Society Act and created a network of member/riders who would let us know of any downed riders in need of assistance. Initial funding came from dances and other social events, and from various supporters.

We started hospital visits, formed a network of legal and rehabilitative professionals, and helped where we could. Long time motorcyclist Terry Rea was instrumental in promoting A.I.M. to the motorcycle community and dealers.

We are all very proud that after 30 years A.I.M. is still going strong with additional provincial chapters. It is a testament to the success of our mission statement.”

In essence, A.I.M. is a support group, operating within the motorcycle community. We are there to assist and encourage each other when we are downed, and help with recovery in any way that we can.

But we are more than just a support group, sitting around talking to each other. We also help the downed rider work their way through the medical, insurance and legal maze through education. It can be confusing to the injured motorcyclists, laying in hospital and unable to take any action. We can answer most of their questions, and get the answers for the ones that we cannot answer.

We can also arrange storage for their bike, take them out for supper at a biker restaurant, and provide moral support. And, of course, we can cheer them up. This in itself is a great healer. It is always rewarding to see someone get back on their wheels.

Borne out of the need for bikers to help each other, A.I.M. is still going strong after 30 years, and with today's increasing medical, insurance and legal complexities, fills an even bigger role in the downed rider's recovery.

Gary Richardson—Visitation

1. Make eye contact

Never assume others see you. Always try to make eye contact with drivers who may be about to pull into your path.

2. Read "vehicle language"

Even when drivers, cyclists and pedestrians do see you approaching, they often misjudge your distance and speed. Don't rely on them.

3. Watch out for left-turning vehicles at intersections

Getting hit by an oncoming vehicle that's turning left is the most common type of motorcycle crash.

4. Check behind when turning left from a highway

Watch your mirrors and make sure you have plenty of space behind. The drivers behind might not slow down for you.

5. Look out for hazardous road conditions

Wet roads, fluid spills, sand, gravel, highway sealant, railroad tracks, potholes and other road-surface hazards reduce your traction. They cause many falls.

6. Take it easy on the curves

Many crashes happen there. You might overshoot the road or cross the centre line and get hit by oncoming traffic. Watch the road ahead, slow down and choose the correct lane position-before entering a curve.

7. Wear a good helmet

Helmets prevent head injuries in 67 per cent of crashes and deaths in 29 per cent. Make sure your helmet has a sticker showing that it meets current safety standards. Avoid buying a used helmet. It may have been in a crash, and the damage may not be obvious.

8. Wear protective clothing designed for motorcycle riders

It can provide some protection during a crash, as well as shield you from the weather and flying debris. Keeping warm and dry will help you stay alert and maintain coordination. Wear your riding gear in layers so you can adjust to changing conditions. Jeans give little protection. Never ride in lightweight pants or shorts.

9. Protect your eyes and face

Constant wind can make your eyes water, preventing you from spotting hazards. Flying insects, dust and debris can hurt your eyes and face. The best protection is a full-face helmet with a built-in face shield.

10. Be visible

Wear bright, reflective clothing. Add extra reflective material to it or wear a reflective vest. Likewise, buy a bright-coloured helmet and stick reflective tape to the back and sides. Always keep your headlight on. Ride in the lane position where other drivers can easily see you and you've got room to move. Avoid all other vehicles' blind spots.

11. Flash your brake light

When you are slowing down and before stopping.

12. Use your Horn If a motorist doesn't see you, don't be afraid to use your horn.

13. Changing Road conditions

Constantly search the road, also by watching any vehicles ahead of you if they swerve to avoid, or slow down for unknown reasons.

14. Give yourself space and time to respond

To other motorists' actions and give other motorists time and space to respond to you.

Lastly, my 2 cents, is ATTITUDE: Riding in all kinds of weather and road conditions, it has paid in keeping a Positive - Happy- Do not Assume -Attitude. Each ride is learning something new or being reminded of something old. Saying thank you to other drivers after changing lanes etc. Flashing the brake light letting drivers know I am slowing down. Prepare for bad weather, to stay warm and dry on the rest of the journey. If I get a bad feeling, I postpone the ride till it feels right. I also know that "we all" are going to have a safe ride and say thank you for that great ride. - Just saying - Chris
